Notice to Contributors

Papers (in English) should be sent to the Editor, Histopathology, Professor R. E. Cotton, Department of Pathology, City Hospital, Hucknall Road, Nottingham NG5 1PB, England. Papers are accepted on the understanding that they have not been and will not be published elsewhere, as they become copyright of the journal. Two copies should be submitted to aid refereeing and these should be typed (with a wide margin), double spaced, on one side of standard paper (A4—30 × 21 cm).

A title page should contain the author's name(s), place of work, address for correspondence, full title and short running title. For indexing purposes, a small number of 'key words' should be identified. Authors should retain one copy of text, tables and illustrations as the Editor cannot accept responsibility for damage or loss of manuscripts. Overseas authors may wish to consult an appropriate member of the Editorial Advisory Board prior to submission of material.

The text should be preceded by a short summary not exceeding 200 words and should then proceed to sections of Introduction, Materials and Methods, Results and Discussion. Pages should be numbered consecutively in arabic numerals, but tables, footnotes, figure legends including magnifications and acknowledgements should be submitted on separate sheets. Tables and figures should be referred to in the text together with an indication of their approximate position recorded in the text margin.

The reference list should be in alphabetical order and include the full title thus:

TAYLOR H.B. & NORRIS H.J. (1970) Well differentiated carcinoma of the breast. Cancer 25, 687–692

THOMSON A.D. & COTTON R.E. (1968) The nephrotic syndrome. In Lecture Notes on Pathology, 2nd edn, pp. 525–530. Blackwell Scientific Publications, Oxford

References in the text should use the Harvard System and be in full on first mention, e.g. (Brown, Smith & Williams 1975), but subsequently abbreviated to (Brown et al. 1975), unless there are more than three authors, when et al. should be used throughout. Where more than one reference is given together, these should be in chronological order. Authors are responsible for the accuracy of their references.

Spelling should conform to The Concise Oxford Dictionary of Current English and units of measurement, symbols and abbreviations with those in Units, Symbols and Abbreviations (1972) published and supplied by the Royal Society of Medicine, 1 Wimpole Street, London W1M 8AE. This specifies the use of S.I. (Système International) Units.

Illustrations should be labelled, with the figure number and author's name in soft pencil on the back identifying the top edge. Photographs should be glossy bromide prints of good contrast and well matched, preferably mounted on card and with a transparent overlay for protection. The overlay can be used to indicate masking instructions, lettering or arrows. Specific features may be identified for electron micrographs either directly on the prints or on the overlay. Magnifications should be notified to the exclusion of the insertion of scales on prints. Photographs should not exceed 213 × 156 mm and authors may be asked to contribute to the cost of printing if the space requested for illustrations is considered excessive. In the case of electron micrographs it is desirable that full page width should be utilized. Colour photographs will be allowable only in special circumstances and the author will be asked to contribute the cost of reproduction. Line diagrams should be drawn with black ink on tracing paper or white card or supplied as glossy prints.

Page proofs together with separate block 'pulls' to indicate quality of photographic reproduction will be sent to the author's address on the title page and should be returned within 3 days of receipt. Alterations in the text, other than corrections, may be charged to the author.

Twenty-five offprints of each paper will be provided free of charge and additional copies may be ordered when proofs are returned. A scale of charges will be sent with the proofs.
